

Randall Heath graduated from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology with a degree in Computer Science and Engineering. He works as a software engineer for Google, recently leading the engineering team for a $400 million/year product. Among his previous employers are major aerospace concerns, including TRW (now Northrop Grumman) and the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, and other internet companies, including Yahoo!

He served in the US Army Reserve for six years, and attained the rank of Staff Sergeant. He sang with COACC in their Carnegie Hall debut in 2012, and performed with the choir under the direction of Maestro John Rutter. He has served on the COACC Board of Directors since 2012. In his capacity as a Board Member, he has worked with budgeting, grants, fundraising and ticket sales.

He volunteers his time working with the developmentally disabled. He coaches bowling for Tri-Valley Special Olympics, and baseball for the Challenger Division of Northridge City Little League.
