

Sidney Cabrera-Choreographer

Sidney Cabrera has been a dedicated member of the City of Angels Community Choirs (COACC) since the age of nine, when she joined the Children's Chorus. Throughout her years with COACC, Sidney has developed as both a performer and choreographer, apprenticing under COACC's Lead Resident Choreographer, Dr. Susan Norton.

Her performance experience includes singing at Carnegie Hall with the City of Angels Master Chorale and recording at the renowned EastWest Studios in Hollywood for Disney's Dumbo live-action film trailer.

Sidney's artistic background extends beyond choral music. She studied ballet for approximately five years and has received training in hip-hop and ballroom dance. She also participated in cheerleading for approximately five years, developing skills in movement, performance, coordination, and ensemble work.

Sidney is currently studying Evolution and Ecology at California State University, Northridge. She continues to pursue her passion for the performing arts through COACC, where she is now a member of the Adult Chorus and serves as a choreographer for both the Children's and Adult Choruses.

Her journey from a nine-year-old chorister to a performing artist, mentor, and choreographer reflects COACC's commitment to nurturing young artists and providing them with opportunities to grow into leadership roles within the organization.
